Teacher Struggles With SIFE: Pre-COVID

Teaching emergent literacy
"I don't know how to teach reading/phonics."

Language abilities
"I don't speak the students' language(s) and they don't know English".
"I don't know how to teach in Spanish"

Lack of standard curriculum
"Our administrators have given us free rein."

Trauma/Socio-emotional needs
"These kids have been through so much. How can we manage our classrooms better?"

---

---

---

---

---

---

Teacher Struggles With SIFE: During-COVID

Educational priorities have shifted to humanitarian ones
"We are worried about our students' safety."
"We know some of our students are hungry."

Locating students
"Some of my students haven't checked in since school was cancelled."
"I only see my students when I deliver food to their houses."

Technological shortfalls
"Our students don't have consistent access to internet, computers, smart phones, data to take part in online learning."

Work obligations
"These kids are still working, some as the sole breadwinner in their household. When school opens, will they come back?"

Lack of school-home connections
"We haven't made sufficient inroads with students' families/support networks for this to work."

Where does Migrant Education fit in?

- Expertise in one-on-one time with the students
  - Honing in on the individual learner
- Knowing students' capacities and proficiencies well
  - Finding appropriate reading materials for students according to their personal interests and levels
- Understanding of the home environment
  - Knowing the geography of the students' lives, their living situations, and supports
- Providing an additional expert resource
  - You provide another set of eyes and source of information

FYI - SIFE Instruction by the School

Important tools available to teachers

- Screening, ID, and Placement for SIFE students
- Multilingual Screener – L1
- SIFE Writing Screener – L1
- Oral Interview Questionnaire

Interpreting a student's score on the Writing Screener

Mostly 3	Student shows sufficient coherence in his/her writing ability.
Mostly 1 and 2	Student shows moderate coherence in his/her writing ability.
Mostly 0	Student shows minimal coherence in his/her writing ability.

Grade level	When was the student last in school?	Is the student currently in school?	Did you give the student a chance to attend school again?	When was the last time the student was in school? ## SIFE Instruction During COVID

- Going back to basics – Meeting them where they are
- Awareness that students are receiving LESS exposure to English each day
- Affordances of lessened accountability to school curriculum
  - Freedom from Regents expectations
  - Loosening of grading requirements
- Phone and Whatsapp as modes to support oral and written language development

Meeting Them Where They Are:
At the Very Beginning: 1

T: Hello, how are you?
S: I'm fine. And you? How are you?
T: I'm fine, thanks.

[Standard greeting. Students are likely familiar with this, so it gives confidence. If the student wants to answer something besides fine, you can improvise here, but this is typical for a formulaic interaction in English]

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Meeting Them Where They Are: At the Very Beginning: 2

T: What's your name? My first name is _____ and my last name is _____ . What's your first name and last name?

S: My first name is _____. My last name is _____.

[An opportunity for students to practice articulating their name, and sometimes deciding which name(s) to use in US society. Educators can help students pronounce their names for greatest intelligibility to an English-speaking interlocutor]

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Meeting Them Where They Are: At the Very Beginning: 3

T: Can you spell your first name? I spell my first name [letters]. Can you spell your first name?

S: (Student spells first name)

T: Can you spell your last name? I spell my last name [letters]. Can you spell your last name?

S: (Student spells last name)

[Spelling: a necessary skill for any professional interaction. If students are unsure of how to spell their names, tutors should take the opportunity to review the alphabet and names of each letter. Don't hesitate to ask students to repeat].

Whatsapp Demo

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Breakout Room

• Practice some of these exchanges with your colleagues. Try to formulate what you would say before you say it like you would on Whatsapp (phone /Zoom).

- Hello, how are you?
- What's your first name? What's your last name?
- How do you spell your first and last name?
- What is your date of birth?
- What is your phone number?

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Debrief

- How were those practice exercises for you?
- Can we have some volunteers to model exchanges?

Volunteers?

More Practice Breakout

- Practice these simple conversational exchanges in pairs, with one person being the Teacher and one being a newly arrived SIFE student. Think of how you would scaffold the words if the students don't yet have the vocabulary to answer.
- T: How old are you?
- T: Where do you live?
- T: What is your address?
- T: What is your phone number?
- T: Where do you go to school?
- T: What languages do you speak?
- T: What is your job?
- T: Where do you work?

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Debrief

- How was that experience for you? What were some of the things you noticed as the teacher? As the student?
- What other resources could support this kind of foundational oral language development?

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

Closing Remarks

- SIFE students are linguistically at risk
- Migrant Education is particularly well positioned to bridge these gaps...
  - Academically
  - Socially
  - Emotionally
- Don't be deterred from beginning your instruction from where the students are – the very start!
